Coastal Hospice patient Ed Dietsch recognized for service in World War II

A day before his 96th birthday, Ed Dietsch of Whaleyville was surrounded by family and close friends as a Coastal Hospice volunteer visited his home to honor Dietsch’s service in World War II.

“This is a beautiful day with beautiful people,” Dietsch said as he accepted a plaque, an American flag blanket and a salute from George Shoben, Korean War veteran who volunteers for Coastal Hospice’s We Honor Veterans Program.

The We Honor Veterans Program is Coastal Hospice service to honor those who served our country. Shoben began volunteering with the program after his wife died in Coastal Hospice care.

“It’s amazing to watch veterans at the end of life light up when saluted and salute back to their fellow veteran,” he said. “It’s an honor and a privilege to do this.”

The veteran recognition, held at Dietsch’s home in July, was made especially memorable because Peggy Anne Vosseler of the 12th Armored Division (WWII) Association called in to honor Dietsch with the Distinguished Member Award since he was not going to

Put Your Name On It Campaign Launches

Since its inception, Coastal Hospice has been on the forefront of end-of-life care. Our organization continues this legacy with the development of the Macky and Pam Stansell House of Coastal Hospice at the Ocean.

This hospice home is the first of its kind for the Lower Shore and will serve our most vulnerable patients from Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties. This fall, we launch the “Put Your Name On It” campaign to provide opportunities for the community to be a part of this historic project by naming rooms in the home. The “Put Your Name On It” campaign unveils new images of the project, naming opportunities for rooms of the residence, advertising, and a new web page dedicated to the project – StansellHouse.org. The donations received through the campaign will be used to finish construction, and contributions will continue to be used to support the care provided to patients at the residence.

The Stansell House, which is set to open in early 2019, includes 12 patient rooms with a number of amenities to make the residence feel like home. Situated on the Isle of Wight Bay, visiting families and patients will enjoy beautiful views of the water and Ocean City skyline. Nestled in the wooded Ocean Pines community, the Stansell House is in a peaceful setting and is made even more tranquil with the inclusion of an outdoor meditation labyrinth garden and indoor meditation sanctuary. The porches and veranda will be furnished with rocking chairs, and residents and their families will also be able to enjoy home-cooked meals in the dining room.

This is a special space for hospice patients who are no longer safe in their homes. At the Stansell House, they will be safe. They will be cared for. Our home will be their home. We thank the community for partnering with Coastal Hospice to turn this vision into a reality. be able to attend the 72nd reunion that month. She expressed her gratitude to Dietsch on behalf of the association and its members.

Dietsch was a WWII combat medic with the U.S. Army’s 12th Armored Division, nicknamed the “Hellcats.”

“A German soldier nicknamed them the Hellcats because they fought like hell and were sneaky like cats,” said Dietsch’s daughter, Denise Esham.

Dietsch was awarded two Purple Hearts and two Bronze Stars for his brave service and near fatal injuries. In 2006, the French Government awarded Dietsch the Chevalier Medal of Honor. He also received the Good Conduct medal.

“War is hell,” said Dietsch, who remembers his years of service like it was yesterday and still has dreams at night about the war. He was part of the first group to liberate the Landsburg Concentration Camp.

After serving in WWII, Dietsch became a highly skilled optometrist and actively worked until age 84. Esham and her family were able to care for her elderly father on their own, but accepted help from Coastal Hospice in June when his health deteriorated.

“I didn’t want to bring in hospice at first, but Coastal Hospice has provided relief and comfort,” Esham said. “This is the hardest, most rewarding job.”

Q: Do patients with advanced heart failure use less health care when enrolled into hospice?

A: Research shows advanced heart failure patients live longer and are less likely to die in the hospital when they receive hospice care specific to their needs. A recent Medicare analysis showed that hospice enrollees who had at least two heart failure discharges within six months had substantially less healthcare utilization in the next six months after a second hospital discharge. Specifically, they had less emergency department visits, intensive care unit stays and hospital stays when in hospice care.

Hospice provides comprehensive, coordinated care with a number of benefits for all those who have life limiting illness such as advanced heart failure. Hospice care helps better optimize patient goals including goals to live longer, die at home, focus on comfort, and avoid hospitalization. The study was funded by the National Institute on Aging, Mount Sinai Older Adults Independence Center, the Agency on Healthcare Research and Quality, and the National Palliative Care Research Center.

Volunteers and community invited to name rooms at the Stansell House

Volunteers attended a gathering on June 21 at DiFebo’s Restaurant in Berlin to share appetizers and learn the latest news about the Macky and Pam Stansell House of Coastal Hospice at the Ocean.

The event featured an overview about the Stansell House project with new images and updates on the progress of construction of the facility in Ocean Pines. Never before seen aerial footage was unveiled for volunteers to be the first to celebrate the tangible progression of making the vision of the home a reality.

The Stansell House will serve as the first ever hospice home for the Lower Shore – including Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties. Too many of the terminally ill on the Lower Shore are unable to have adequate care at the end of their life in their home. That may be because they live alone, or their spouse is unable to give them the care they require at this stage. In early 2019, the Stansell House will be a safe home for Coastal Hospice patients who need it the most.

In addition to being a home for Coastal Hospice patients in need, the Stansell House will provide space for families to receive advice and work directly with the team social workers, grief counselors, spiritual counselors,
Coastal Hospice employee, ShayQuanda Gibbs, becomes registered nurse

When ShayQuanda Gibbs of Salisbury became a mother, she reached a critical juncture in her life path. She had to decide whether to allow new responsibilities to delay her dreams, or allow this life-changing event to inspire her to pursue a better life for her and her son.

Gibbs decided to tap into her nurturing and compassionate nature and pursue a career in healing and health care. She took the first step by becoming a certified nursing assistant (CNA). CNAs assist patients with daily activities such as bathing. Gibbs took this role seriously and understood it to be important in the process of learning how to become a good nurse with the eventual goal of becoming a pediatrician in a large city.

Last year, her vision shifted when she learned about Coastal Hospice from a new colleague, Rochelle Corbin, RN. Corbin has worked as a nurse for Coastal Hospice for 17 years. Gibbs considers Corbin a mentor an inspiration as both women made their way up the nursing career ladder by first working as CNAs, then becoming licensed practical nurses, and ultimately registered nurses. Licensed practical nurses have one year of nursing education. Registered nurses have, at minimum, a two-year degree and a higher skill level. Gibbs sought Corbin’s advice when she was ready to find a full time nursing job.

“Coastal Hospice is fortunate to have driven, compassionate people like Shay and Rochelle on staff,” said Alane Capen, president of Coastal Hospice. “Shay is a wonderful example of the dedicated staff who start as aides and take the steps to further themselves, their skills and their careers to become hospice nurses.”

Gibbs joined Coastal Hospice on April 23 and finished her associate’s degree in nursing through WorWic Community College while working as a nursing assistant. She became licensed as a registered nurse July 6. Her next goal is to become a nurse practitioner.

Since working at Coastal Hospice, Gibbs said she has discovered a new passion for the end-of-life care. “I get to know the patients and what kind of life they have lived,” Gibbs said. “In a hospital setting you do not get to know your patients for long, and sometimes they pass without you really getting to know them.”

Hospice care is about building relationships with your patients, she added. “I build a bond with them over time,” Gibbs said of her hospice patients. “I love working here.”

Ocean Pines resident wins grill raffle benefiting Coastal Hospice

Ocean Pines resident Ray Daly, 86, said he participated in the Newport Kitchen and Bath raffle as a way to support Coastal Hospice. The day after he bought a raffle ticket for a new grill, he was surprised by a call telling him he had won.

Newport Kitchen and Bath held a drawing for the raffle benefiting Coastal Hospice on June 30. The raffle raised $2,050 to help with the campaign to build the Macky and Pam Stansell House of Coastal Hospice at the Ocean. The Stansell House will be the first ever hospice residence for the Lower Shore, serving hospice patients from Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties who are in need of a safe home in their final months of life. The house, located in Ocean Pines, is set to open to patients in early 2019.

Daly said wanted to participate in the fundraiser not for the grill, but because Coastal Hospice staff provided such compassionate care for his wife who died one year ago from Leukemia.

“Coastal Hospice staff came by every day and were such a big help,” Daly said. His wife was cared for by Coastal Hospice for three years.

The owner of Ocean Pines-based Newport Kitchen and Bath, Don Fiedler, is married to Coastal Hospice team leader Jocelyn Fiedler. The couple decided to hold the raffle to support the Coastal Hospice employee pledge to raise $30,000 for the Stansell House. Coastal Hospice employees have raised more than $20,000 toward their goal to date.
Marilyn Keane dedicates final room at Coastal Hospice at the Lake

Marilyn Keane, of Salisbury, dedicated the last room of Coastal Hospice at the Lake in loving memory of her late husband, Dr. John Keane.

“He spent his career here in Salisbury and would have wanted to leave something behind to show that he cared for this community,” Keane said.

Keane and her husband were among the first supporters of Coastal Hospice in the 1970s. She was part of the initial group that came together to discuss the need for hospice care in the community. The couple held one of the first major fundraisers to establish Coastal Hospice for the Lower Shore.

Dr. Keane was diagnosed with Alzheimer’s and slowly declined over a 10 year period. At the end of his life he was cared for in his home by his family and a Coastal Hospice team. He died five years ago on July 9.

“As a skilled and devoted physician, my husband would have been very pleased that this room was dedicated in his memory,” Keane said.

Coastal Hospice announces reorganization and promotions

Coastal Hospice announces the reorganization of its Admissions Department. The department has been renamed the Access Department to reflect its focus on helping patients and families access services of Coastal Hospice more efficiently and with greater support.

Coastal Hospice staff member Nancy Stewart has been tapped for the new manager of the reorganized department. Stewart has been with the agency for seven years as a community liaison in the provider relations department. She managed the provider relations department for the past two and a half years. Before joining Coastal Hospice, she had experience with VITAS Innovative Hospice Care, GlaxoSmithKline Pharmaceuticals and Takeda Pharmaceuticals. During her time with Coastal Hospice, she has developed strong relationships with the region’s physicians, nursing homes and assisted living facilities.

Provider relations coordinator, Bob Miller, was promoted to manager with Stewart’s departure transition. Miller has been with Coastal Hospice for nearly five years. He has worked as a chaplain and in bereavement services before moving to provider relations last year. He has in depth knowledge of hospice and an ability help providers, patients and families understand how hospice can help.

“I am confident this reorganization will continue to improve the experience of our patients and families as they become introduced to our services,” said Coastal Hospice Vice President David Hanlin. “Bob and Nancy come to their roles with an established working relationship. Now in their respective leadership roles they are nonetheless committed to ensuring that the staffs of their departments are always focused on finding new ways to better serve our patients and families.”

Coastal Hospice welcomes community & media relations coordinator

Kat Gunby joined the Coastal Hospice team as the new community and media relations coordinator this spring. She is responsible for agency communications, public relations and marketing to promote the mission and services of Coastal Hospice.

Previously, Gunby was the director of prevention services at Worcester County Health Department. Earlier in her career, she also managed the Lower Shore health insurance exchange connector entity, which connected residents to health benefits via Maryland Health Connection.

Gunby holds a Master of Public Health degree from University of Maryland at College Park. She also holds a B.S. in journalism, news-editorial and a B.A. in philosophy from the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Before her career in health, Gunby worked as a journalist and then served as the public information officer for the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency. She is a native of Jackson, Miss. but has made the Eastern Shore her home for almost nine years.

Her position falls under the recently reorganized Advancement Department headed by Director Heather Duma. By bringing marketing and public relations under the same umbrella as fundraising and development, Coastal Hospice is better positioned to advance its mission into the community through communications, media, public awareness and education, and promotion of fundraising events.
Camp Safe Harbor provides support for grieving children

Coastal Hospice invites children who have lost a loved one to Hope & Healing with Horses, a free children’s bereavement camp, on Saturday, September 29 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Kindred Spirit Farm, 3191 Johnson Rd. in Salisbury.

This free event is designed for children ages 6-14 who have experienced the death of a parent, grandparent, sibling or other close loved one in the past two years. It is open to both hospice and non-hospice families. A responsible adult must accompany each child, and the counselors also provide the adults with grief support activities. No previous experience with horses is required. Children should wear closed-toe shoes for riding. Lunch is provided. The rain date for the event is October 6.

This event is free, but space is limited. To register, call Melissa Dasher at 443-944-5846.

Hope & Healing with Horses provides grief support for children

Camp Safe Harbor, a bereavement day camp held at Salisbury University for children ages 6 to 12, became a safe and loving place in June for children to heal and open up about their loss.

Coastal Hospice staff and volunteers, as well as staff and students from SU’s Social Work Department, worked together to make the fourth annual camp a successful program. Counselors experienced in grief support helped the children work through the loss of a parent, grandparent, sibling, or loved one. Fun activities such as video making, support circles, poetry, art, and sports activities helped each child heal in their own unique way.

nurses and doctors on how to best coordinate the care the patient and family needs during this vulnerable time.

The Stansell House will also serve as a hub for the care coordination team and an outreach center. Education will be provided on site, as well as one-on-one and group grief support.

Construction of this important new element of Coastal Hospice is scheduled for completion in late fall/early winter, but additional support is needed to fund the project. Coastal Hospice invite volunteers to be the first to make a pledge to name and support a community-funded room in the residence. Volunteer Stephanie Shores has taken the lead in contributing toward the $5,000 goal of volunteers to name a room.

The volunteer room naming opportunity is part of the “Put Your Name On It Campaign.” Individuals, families, community groups and organizations are invited to show their support for the project by naming community-funded rooms. Two patient rooms are available for naming – the Veterans Memorial Room and the Family Tribute Room. To find out more about the campaign, please contact the Coastal Hospice Office of Advancement at 410-742-8732 and asked to speak with the director, Heather Duma.

For more information about volunteer opportunities at the Stansell House, contact Renee’ Smith, volunteer services manager, at 410-543-2590.
Kicks 4 Kids provides a fun field day for families

Coastal Hospice kicked up the fun during Kicks 4 Kids, a family field day event held at WinterPlace Park on Saturday, August 4.

More than 100 kids and families came out for the Kicks-themed event, which included adorably adorned TOMS on display for the shoe decoration contest and the dirtiest, smelliest sneakers presented in the Smelly Sneaker Contest. The young and young at heart enjoyed a day of watermelon eating, games, races, music, prizes and more.

The event raised approximately $3,000 to help support the Coastal Kids Supportive Care Pediatric Program of Coastal Hospice. It’s hard to think about putting kids and hospice together, but there may be no other time when it’s more important to get health care right. And, with Coastal Kids Supportive Care, Coastal Hospice does.

Unlike adults, pediatric patients don’t have to give up curative treatment for a serious illness when they accept the support and comfort of hospice care. Our Coastal Kids Supportive Care team helps children and their families manage every variety of distress and symptoms at a most vulnerable time.

We are especially grateful for our volunteer committee members who spent countless hours planning and hosting this important event. We also sincerely appreciate the community businesses who sponsored the event. A great time was had by all as we kicked back and enjoyed a day of play for a wonderful cause.
